

Decalogue for the Sharing Group

1. Meetings are led by the Holy Spirit through Mary.
2. Purpose of the meeting:
 - To become aware of my weaknesses and the truth of being loved by God
 - To respond to the desire to deepen my faith
 - To be open to others (brothers and sisters) in the group
 - To share different experiences of my faith and how God is present in my life
3. When I go to the meeting, I will pray to God for others and myself.
 - Prayer of empty hands or that of the tax collector is recommended.
4. I will remember that I am God's child who has the right to trust and await miracles.
5. As a participant in our meeting I will:
 - Serve others and not count my own merits
 - Create the atmosphere of calm, focus/concentration and openness
 - Not impose on others my ways of thinking, reacting and perceiving
 - Avoid giving advice or solving others' problems
 - Speak from my personal "I" rather than use such terms as "you, we, us, people, we should, others do this."
 - Avoid discussion and criticism
6. By keeping what is shared in the meeting confidential, I will preserve each participant's freedom to share openly and protect their dignity as a child of God.
7. I will not be afraid of moments of silence, since I or somebody else may need time to reflect. Moments of silence provide us with unique opportunities for prayer and entrustment to God.
8. I will remember to attentively listen to what my brother or sister is saying in order to help them in the process of sharing.
9. When I give a witness talk or share my faith, God's grace is not only given to me but it is being multiplied and given to others.
10. Above all, God expects from me humility and openness. Even one person who is humble and open to God can create an appropriate climate during a given meeting that will spread to all participants. The most important and desirable goal is not the format of the meeting, but it is to be open to God's grace and presence.

Opening or Closing Prayer

Holy Mary, full of God's presence during the days of your life, you accepted with full humility the Father's will,

and the Devil was never capable to tie you around with his confusion.

Once with your Son you interceded for our difficulties, and,
full of kindness and patience,

you gave us the example of how to untie the knots of our life.
And by remaining forever Our Mother, you put in order, and make more clear the ties that link us to the Lord.

Holy Mother, Mother of God and our Mother, to you, who untie with motherly heart the knots of our life, we pray to you to receive in your hands (name), and to free them [him/her] of the knots and confusion with which our enemy attacks.

Through your grace, your intercession, and your example, deliver us from all evil, Our Lady,

and untie the knots that prevent us from being united with God,
so that we, free from sin and error,
may find Him in all things,
may have our hearts placed in Him,
and may serve Him always in our brothers and sisters. Amen

Spiritual Reflection

“Filled with the Holy Spirit, Jesus returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit into the desert for forty days to be tempted by the devil.” Lk 4: 1

Our discouragement and sadness, which occur when we fall into the temptation of an exaggerated concern about the future, show us very clearly that God is not present in the experience. This kind of thinking occurs as a ‘deed’ in which, unfortunately, the evil spirit often participates as well. Therefore, the words of our Savior: “Get behind me, Satan! You are an obstacle to me. You are thinking not as God does, but as human beings do,” (Mt 16:23) can be applied to us.

When we are concerned about the future in an exaggerated way, we are actually being submissive to Satan in the same way as was St. Peter. After hearing from Jesus that He was going to suffer and die, St. Peter reacted decisively with opposition: “God forbid, Lord! No such thing shall ever happen to you” (Mt 16:22). There was Peter standing in confrontation of the approaching suffering and death of his Master, and connecting his Master’s fate with his own suffering, he wanted to take care of it in a purely human way.

This temptation of exaggerated concern about the future inherently questions our hope that God will actually take care of us. And when we are beset with temptations against hope, faith, or purity, we should not, as St. Maximilian Mary Kolbe warned us, fight against them directly. These temptations present a glove thrown to us by Satan himself, and they are a challenge from him. The one who goes into battle with Satan determines in advance his own catastrophe, for he is trying to rely on himself, thinking that he should be stronger than the evil spirit. The question arises: what should we do?

We simply have to imagine that someone is calling us to fight, someone much stronger and full of pride. However, if you know that you are unable to defeat him by yourself, it will be most profitable for you to leave the glove behind. In medieval times, for a knight to be ignored in such a fashion was considered the ultimate disgrace. Similarly, Satan will also be humiliated and conquered by this kind of disregard, by your ignoring of this temptation. Otherwise, he will try to weaken and destroy you, tempting you with thoughts about your future and leading you to greater sadness, discouragement and despair.

God does not expect us to struggle with exaggerated concerns and with thoughts about our future. Oh, how happy is the one who, in the simplicity of his heart, looks at his present life situation and does not get ahead of himself. In his thoughts about the future, he sees that it does not depend on him, but lies totally in the hands of God. Moreover, the examples of various saints confirm our conviction that God’s intervention can be so powerful that even death by terrible tortures can be permeated with His presence. In this way, a person can be united with the One who shows His presence in the most tender love.

References from the Catechism of the Catholic Church

2847 The Holy Spirit makes us discern between trials, which are necessary for the growth of the inner man,¹⁵² and temptation, which leads to sin and death.¹⁵³ We must also discern between being tempted and consenting to temptation. Finally, discernment unmasks the lie of temptation, whose object appears to be good, a “delight to the eyes” and desirable,¹⁵⁴ when in reality its fruit is death God does not want to impose the good, but wants free beings. . . . There is a certain usefulness to temptation. No one but God knows what our soul has received from him, not even we ourselves. But temptation reveals it in order to teach us to know ourselves, and in this way we discover our evil inclinations and are obliged to give thanks for the goods that temptation has revealed to us.¹⁵⁵

2848 “Lead us not into temptation” implies a decision of the heart: “For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. . . No one can serve two masters.”¹⁵⁶ “If we live by the Spirit, let us also walk by the Spirit.”¹⁵⁷ In this assent to the Holy Spirit the Father gives us strength. “No testing has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and he will not let you be tempted beyond your strength, but with the temptation will also provide the way of escape, so that you may be able to endure it.”¹⁵⁸

2849 Such a battle and such a victory become possible only through prayer. It is by his prayer that Jesus vanquishes the tempter, both at the outset of his public mission and in the ultimate struggle of his agony.¹⁵⁹ In this petition to our heavenly Father, Christ unites us to his battle and his agony. He urges us to vigilance of the heart in communion with his own. Vigilance is “custody of the heart,” and Jesus prayed for us to the Father: “Keep them in your name.”¹⁶⁰ The Holy Spirit constantly seeks to awaken us to keep watch.¹⁶¹ Finally, this petition takes on all its dramatic meaning in relation to the last temptation of our earthly battle; it asks for final perseverance. “Lo, I am coming like a thief! Blessed is he who is awake.”¹⁶²

Questions for Reflection

1. How does my “fall” into sin affect my heart? What is my inner attitude? Defiant or depressed? Resentful or repentant?
2. What is my reaction in discovering that I have untold failed opportunities for God’s love to fill me with the graces He wants to bestow on me?
3. What is the role of Mary in my life? How can I envision her bending to pick me up and rush home with her child who has fallen?

Prayer after Sharing

Thank you, God, for allowing me to see the truth about my weaknesses and how it calls upon the abyss of your merciful Love.
